Centre for Governance, Institutions and Organizations

- Established by NUS Business School in 2010
- Aims at promoting impactful research on governance issues relevant to Asia
- Organizes public lectures, industry roundtables and academic conferences on topics related to governance
- Issues rankings and indices such as the Governance and Transparency Index
Boardroom Diversity

- Boardroom diversity is increasingly part of corporate governance discussions and metrics
- Diversity encompasses issues such as education, expertise, gender, minorities, industry experience, etc.
- General idea: more diverse boards are more effective and responsive
“the greater the variety within a system, the greater its ability to reduce variety in its environment through regulation.”

The law of requisite variety

W. Ross Ashby
“It is imperative for boards to comprise an appropriate mix of skills and mindsets. Our listed companies are encouraged to review their Boards’ composition and balance of gender diversity, to meet the increasing demands from investors on good governance and corporate sustainability. An effective board allows independence and diversity of thought.”

Magnus Bocker
CEO, Singapore Exchange Ltd (SGX)

Conclusions

- Singapore has relatively few female directors
  - Compared to developed countries and regional peers
  - Trend data do not suggest that this will rapidly change
- It will take 158 more board seats held by women to reach 10% female representation on SGX Boards.
- Differences between male and female directors in:
  - Roles: Executive and non-executive
  - Number of board positions
  - Age
  - Formal education
Future

• Continue to issue the Singapore Board Diversity Index annually
• Collect more data on the profiles of women directors and their career paths
• Identify best practices and document relevant case studies
• Find one or more partners to ensure continuation of this research on a sustainable basis
